Charge Thousands Pocketed In Slush Funds By Lobbyists

Grand Jury In Cole County Had Six Indictments

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 2.—(P)—Here's the roll of the Cole county grand jury indictments:

Rep. Joseph L. Ivanhoe (D) St. Louis, charged with soliciting bribes.

Rep. Edward F. Byrnes (D) St. Louis, charged with soliciting a bribe.

Grover C. Clevenger, former penal director, charged with defrauding the state in prison equipment purchases.

Herbert Wolcott, Columbia, Mo., salesman, co-defendant with Clevenger.

Henry Cason, former prison engineer, co-defendant with Clevenger.

Charles J. Harvey, former insurance department lawyer, charged with soliciting a bribe.

Joseph Ayers, Rolla, Mo., fire chief charged with perjury but jury recommended indictment be dismissed.

Charge On Lobbyists

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 2.—(P)—A Cole county grand jury charged today lobbyists solicited and pocketed thousands of dollars in legislative slush funds—inspiring rumors of official corruption in the Missouri General Assembly.

"Although we have returned six indictments we feel that others equally guilty have escaped by legal subterfuge," the jurors reported as they wound up a four months' investigation of legislative fraud.

The jury asked the legislature to carry on the investigation through its own committees and recommended legislation to put a stringent checkrein on all lobbyists, forcing them to register and make public records of financial transactions.

"After an investigation that has lasted for months," the report said, "we have come to the conclusion that the legislative situation in Missouri is not nearly so bad as it has been depicted. x x x

"Many funds were raised to support and oppose bills. They have been traced into the hands of their (non-legislators) custodians and no further."

Two of the jury's indictments accused St. Louis legislators of soliciting bribes. The jury recommended dismissal of another indictment which charged Joseph Ayers, Rolla, Mo., fire chief, with perjury in his testimony on a fireman's pension bill fund. The report said he had cleared himself.

The grand jury began its investigation after Charles M. Hay, St. Louis lawyer and lobbyist, accused legislators of soliciting bribes, offering their votes for sale and attempting to shake down businessmen. In its four months' probe it questioned nearly 150 legislators, lobbyists and business men.

"Sandbagging" Bills

The jury criticized "sandbagging" bills.

Reds Beat Down Counter Thrust

By EDVY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Feb. 2.—(P)—Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's southern front army was reported today knifing on through heavy minefields and beating down German counter attacks in an onslaught back into the Ukraine in a 60-mile wide wedge southwest of Kharkov.

"We haven't stopped for a single hour," said a dispatch from this area where the Russians already had thrust 55 miles over fields of Nazi dead.

Names of towns recaptured were kept secret, as was the fate of German units hemmed in behind the Russian drive, but dispatches said that on one battlefield 1,200 Germans were wiped out and 800 others were killed by bombing, machine gunning Russian planes.

The Russians kept grimly to the advance, spurred by belief that they must not only regain lost ground, but must deal the German army a blow that will sap the power of the Nazi spring offensive which the high command regards as sure to come.

Using only initials to represent towns, Russians dispatched said the village of "K" had been won back under the Red flag on the Kalinin front and a village of "N" in another sector of the northwestern front had been recaptured in a drive by infantry and tanks.

Near Leningrad the Germans were said to have lost 1,700 more men in operations over an unspecified period.

Place names generally were omitted from the reports.

Billions Are Approved For Navy In Senate

Senator Overton Says Raid Only 'Opening Gun'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(P)—A $26,495,265.474 naval appropriations bill, largest measure of its kind ever to win approval of a legislative body, was passed by the senate today and returned to the house for action on amendments.

Increased more than $6,000,000 over the total previously voted by the house, the measure would provide approximately $8,000,000,000 for new airplanes and a like amount for ships, in addition to $7,000,000,000 for maintaining the far flung operations of the present fleet.

Funds would be made available in the bill to boost plane production to the navy's quota of 18,000 out of the 60,000 planes for which President Roosevelt has called this year.

The measure was passed on a voice vote two hours and five minutes after it was called up.

Only "Opening Gun"

Senator Overton (D-La.) told the senate today the fleet action against Japanese bases on the Marshall and Gilbert Islands was only the "opening gun of the American navy in the great battle in which we are now engaged."

Urging speedy approval of a $26,495,265.474 naval appropriations bill, Overton asserted that the navy had proved it was on the alert by its smashing of Japanese installations on the mid-Pacific islands.

The Louisiana senator, floor manager for the bill, said the senate appropriations committee had added more than $4,000,000 to the house-approved figures for aviation. This, he said, would provide for the construction of an additional 23,354 planes in the next two years. Rear Admiral John H. Towers, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, previously had told the committee the bill would provide funds for the navy to reach a production rate of 18,000 planes this year.

The bill, Overton said, would make funds available for the construction of 382 surface combat ships to supplement the 344 the navy now has and would go a long way toward bringing the navy up to the strength necessary for the tremendous task before it.

"Before this vast conflict is over," it is not impossible that our garrisons will be all over the world, fighting on every continent—except our own, I trust," Overton declared.

Proposed For Loan To China

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(P)—President Roosevelt asked congress today to authorize a loan of $500,000,000 to China to provide "economic and financial assistance."

Speaker Rayburn, who made public a letter from the President, introduced a resolution authorizing the loan and said Chairman Bloom (D-NY) of the Foreign Affairs committee would report the bill tomorrow for passage this week.

The loan would be in addition to aid already granted China under the lend-lease act and other legislation. It would be made under terms to be worked out by the treasury department.

Extension of the credit, the president wrote Rayburn and Vice President Wallace, would strengthen China's position "as regards both her internal economy and her capacity in general to function with great military effectiveness in our common effort."

Missouri Pacific Box Cars Derailed Near Sedalia

A picture, taken by the Democrat-Capital staff photographer, late Saturday night, of a section of the derailed box cars of the Missouri Pacific Lines, that toppled over at the State Fair switch, when an axle on the car back of the engine broke. Sixteen cars went off the track. No one was injured. The wrecking crew worked all Saturday night cleaning up the debris, and by 10 o'clock Sunday morning had the track cleared for through train service.

Gen W. L. Marlin

Brigadier General William L. Marlin, United States Army, spent Saturday night and Sunday in a visit with Carl G. Schrader, 715 West Third street, leaving Sunday overland for a new assignment. General Marlin and Mr. Schrader are friends of long standing having served overseas together during World War I, and have since been in constant contact with each other.

Try To Dodge 'Dog Watch'

Knox Anxious For Speeding Up On Plane Engines

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(P)—Secretary of the Navy Knox has told Congress that the navy is having difficulty in getting 24-hour production for its tremendously expanded armaments program because manufacturers can induce only about 10 percent of their employees to work in the early morning "dog watch" shifts.

Discussing the navy's general policies, Knox said that the military situation with respect to both oceans was "critical."

In testimony made public today on the $26,495,265.474 naval supply bill, Knox declared that the greatest bottleneck faced in the production program was in turning out aircraft engines. The navy would boost its production to 18,000 planes yearly with funds provided in the measure.

There was every indication the bill would be sent to the president for signing before the weekend, making $39,000,000,000 appropriated and authorized in a month for the war program.

"We are apparently getting the capacity for the bodies of planes faster than we can get the engines with which to equip them and we have got to expand tremendously our engine production to keep up with this enlarged program," he testified.

The secretary said the navy was having "a great deal of difficulty in finding competent men to keep the machines busy all of the while." He said that, roughly speaking, about 60 percent of the men employed by any one factory worked the day shift, up until about 3 or 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Thirty percent worked from then till midnight, but only about 10 percent of the total number of employees was at the

Secret Moves For Defense

Australia Takes Swift Steps To Add Protection

MELBOURNE, Feb. 2.—(P)—The Australian government moved swiftly today to put into effect secret defense measures decided upon yesterday as Australian bombers lashed out again at Japanese forces battling to extend their foothold on New Britain island in the Bismarck archipelago.

A communique said Australian airmen had twice attacked Japanese shipping in the harbor of Rabaul, capital of New Britain, but the results were not immediately disclosed.

It was announced here, meanwhile, that Japanese who landed Saturday on Amboina island, site of an important Dutch naval base some 635 miles north of the tip of Australia, had fought their way close to the Amboina airport.

Hard Fighting On

A Dutch communique from Batavia yesterday made no specific mention of the situation on Amboina, but reported hard fighting at the various scattered points in the Netherlands East Indies where the Japanese previously had won footholds.

These included—in addition to Amboina—the east and west coasts of Borneo and the island of Celebes.

(A Japanese communique broadcast yesterday by the Tokyo radio said Japanese forces had completed occupation of Pontianak, chief city of the Dutch Borneo west coast 440 miles north of Batavia. The Japanese landed last week at Pemangkat, 85 miles north of Pontianak.)

The Dutch said there had been a lessening of Japanese air activity during the weekend in the Indies, although attacks were reported at scattered points.

The Australian air force reported that Japanese scouting planes also had dropped bombs in the vicinity of Tulagi, in the British-mandated section of the Solomon islands, some 600 miles southeast of Rabaul, but said there were no casualties or serious damage.

Deraiment Due Broken Axle

The deraiment of sixteen cars of an east bound freight train on the Missouri Pacific railroad, west of Sedalia, Saturday night, was due to a broken axle on the first car back of the engine. No one was injured in the deraiment, but the cars were piled up on both sides of the train, and it was not until about 10 o'clock Sunday morning that the road was cleared and train went through.

In the meantime passenger train number 19, going west Saturday night was routed from Sedalia to Kansas City over the Lexington branch, and number 9, west bound between St. Louis and Kansas City, was routed over the river route from Jefferson City to Kansas City.

Throughout Sunday large crowds, kept at a distance, watched wrecking crews clearing the wreckage.

Terrific Blows On The Japanese

Gird For Assault By Japs

Air Activity Over Singapore Being Increased

SINGAPORE, Feb. 2.—(P)—The defenders of Singapore, on guard against an expected Japanese thrust across Johore strait, blasted three small enemy craft which appeared yesterday in the narrow waterway and sank one of the vessels, British headquarters announced today.

At the same time, a communique said, artillery on Singapore island bombarded Japanese forces moving into Johore Bahru, directly across the strait.

The bulletin said air reconnaissance had disclosed considerable Japanese troop movements on the mainland, all headed southward in apparent preparation for an all-out assault upon this island fortress.

"Enemy air activity over Singapore has increased throughout the last 24 hours," the communique added. "Some damage was caused but military casualties have been slight."

Bolstered by the arrival of long awaited reinforcements, the British, Australians and Indians massed here swiftly put the finishing touches to preparations for a last ditch stand.

It was presumed the Japanese would require a few days to reorganize after their long push down the Malay peninsula, but Singapore was proceeding on the theory the invaders might launch their attack at any hour.

Along the 35-mile front formed by the mile-wide strait which lies like a moat between the mainland and Singapore island, British artillery kept up a sporadic fire designed to break up the Japanese assault preparations.

From trenches, foxholes and more permanent fortifications machine guns were trained on the narrow strip of water, ready to loose a withering crossfire. Special precautions were taken to guard against surprise attack by Japanese parachutists.

All civilians were withdrawn from the northern part of the island to clear the way for the movements of defense forces, and in Singapore itself military authorities enforced a 9 p.m. curfew.

The welcome news that reinforcements had arrived was disclosed by Sir Shenton Thomas, governor of Singapore, in a broadcast yesterday.

Help Being Sent

"We have been told by Mr. Churchill and others that help is being sent as quickly as possible," he said. "I can tell you now that in the last few days substantial reinforcements have been received."

Sir Shenton did not disclose the nature of the reinforcements.

He expressed confidence in the ability of the people of Singapore to "stand up to total war" as have the peoples of Britain, Russia and China.

His confidence was echoed by

Are Repulsed With Heavy Losses In Batan Peninsula

Fiscal Affairs Not Reached Danger Stage

Bill For Treasury And Post Offices To U. S. Congress

WASHINGTON, February 2.—(P)—A $1,112,926,899 appropriations bill to finance the treasury and postoffice departments for 1943 went to Congress today with assurances from Treasury Secretary Morgenthau that the nation's fiscal affairs were in better shape than in the first World War and were free from danger signals.

"Right now," the treasury secretary said in testifying before a House Appropriations subcommittee, "I think the way values of stocks, bank stocks and commodities have stood up is absolutely amazing—that is, the little fluctuation, there has been."

"I hope it will continue that way," he added, "and I think with all safeguards and brakes that we are adding the situation looks much more hopeful than it did in World War No. 1."

His testimony, and that of other officials was made public by the committee in sending to the House the bill covering the treasury and postoffice departments expenses for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Of the total amount, $209,956,976 was designed for the Treasury Department and $902,969,923 for the Postoffice Department. It represented an increase of $25,604,633 over the comparable expenses for the current fiscal year, but a reduction of $4,902,036 from the amount estimated as necessary by President Roosevelt.

Solvency Seems Secure

Rep. Ludlow (D-Ind.) asked Morgenthau during hearings on the bill whether he saw any "danger signals" concerning the nation's solvency.

"None," Morgenthau replied. He explained that with the new price control law and the system of allocations and priorities on materials "we are hopeful that a real inflation will be prevented."

"We in the treasury feel," he said, "that through our sales of defense bonds to the working men we will absorb a considerable portion of their savings, and also that through sales of our other forms of treasury securities we will attract to the Treasury unused working capital."

Morgenthau did not suggest how Congress might raise $7,000,000,000 in new taxes which President Roosevelt has requested but he appealed for individuals to set aside all they could for loans to the government. He pledged himself to the "voluntary" rather than to any compulsory method of borrowing money.

After Daniel W. Bell, undersecretary of the treasury, told the committee that the present $65,-

Devastation On Islands In Raid By U. S. Fleet

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(P)—General Douglas MacArthur reported today that the defenders of the Batan peninsula in the Philippines had repulsed with heavy losses the latest series of Japanese attacks, which were made by the foe's best troops who employed new tactics.

A War Department communication reporting developments of the past 24 hours and also summarizing savage fighting of the past several days said that two Japanese divisions were hurled simultaneously against American-Filipino lines.

On the west coast, the South China sea shore, the invaders were forced back to the coast, and either destroyed, captured or drowned, the communique said.

On the east side of the peninsula, facing Manila bay, a frontal mass attack was smashed by artillery fire before it got well under way.

The communique made clear however that the Japanese had fought their way in the last three weeks about half way down the peninsula.

The fighting on the east coast took place in the area of Pilar, the War Department said, and this point near an important road junction is only 17 miles from the end of the peninsula opposite the Corregidor fortress.

The latest report of MacArthur's staunch defense lines in rugged Batan peninsula coincided with a belief in Washington that the Pacific fleet has recovered a considerable measure of the striking power lost at Pearl Harbor December 7.

New offensive action against Japan's position in the mid-Pacific was regarded as entirely probable.

This view was held by naval experts as a result of the navy's disclosure yesterday that fleet units had attacked Japanese naval and air bases in the Marshall and Gilbert islands.

Tribute To Courage

General MacArthur said the Batan west coast attack was made by picked groups known as Tatori who made simultaneous attacks at several points. He paid tribute to their courage in a report which the communique thus quoted:

"All enemy thrusts on the west coast have now been completely mastered. The enemy troops employed in this desperate venture were his best. They were shock units, especially trained and selected."

"They have now been entirely destroyed. They resisted with the courage which is characteristic of Japanese troops but at the end were glad to surrender. They are being treated with the respect and consideration which their gallantry so well merits."

Two Japanese divisions, the 16th and 65th were specifically identified by the War Department and constituted what appeared to be the largest force yet hurled at one time against the

Watchers Out To Look For Elusive Little Groundhog

QUARRYVILLE, Pa., Feb. 2.—(P)—The slumbering groundhog of Quarryville, after deep thought and solemn consideration, informed war and navy departments today that the world is in for six more weeks of bad weather.

Hibernating Governor George W. Hensel, Jr., expressed the wish that the forecast also be relayed to the Russian front.

The lodge penned notes to Secretaries Knox and Stimson after receiving a report from the field that the groundhog emerged from his hole "sometime between 11 and 11:30 o'clock this morning," blinked at the brilliant sunshine, saw his shadow, and ducked back.

The message was brought by Manas-a-B. Montgomery, 80-year-old trapper assigned to watch the best groundhog hole in Lancaster county.

It's common knowledge that six more weeks of cold weather are on tap if the woodchuck sees his shadow when he ends his hibernation each Feb. 2. If there is no shadow—well, two and two make four, the earth is round and spring is practically here.

Wearing top hats and long night shirts, members of the 39-year-old Quarryville lodge took to the hills early this morning to ferret out their indispensable brother and observe his reaction.

There was some talk of calling off this year's pilgrimage, because (1) government restrictions forbade long range forecasts, and (2) George W. Hensel, Jr., hibernating governor, and several other lodge members are laid up with bad colds.

"Fish and tush," declared William U. Hensel, secretary and bondless treasurer, "it's our duty to tell the army and navy what kind of weather they'll have six weeks from now—and the lodge still has a couple whippersnappers who can take it."

The lodge did cancel its annual banquet at the village church because "the times are not propitious for celebrating and high-powered feasting."

Pennsylvania's two other shirt tail groups, the Gobbler's Knob club of Punxsutawney and the Grundsow Lodge of Allentown—all three organizations coldly ignore each other—also observed the big day, but differently.

The Punxsutawney blub withheld its forecast as a military secret but will celebrate at a dinner tonight. Allentown's faithful shot the works, went hunting for their pet Grundsow and planned a banquet.

American and Filipino defenders. The attack was directed by Lieut. Gen. Nara, who was not otherwise identified.

On the east coast, the War Department said that the 142nd Japanese Infantry regiment, a component of the 65th Division, led the frontal attack while the 141st and 122nd regiments vainly attempted an envelopment.

Successfully Raid Bases

In a surprise action wholly offensive in nature, U. S. surface and air craft raided five island bases in the Marshalls, and one in the Gilbert group. Amid fierce fighting they sank or severely damaged many enemy fleet auxiliaries, shelled and bombed vital shore installations and destroyed numerous enemy planes—all at a cost of 11 American aircraft missing, two surface vessels slightly damaged and personnel losses which were officially estimated to have been light.

The only disappointment for the American forces was indicated in the navy's statement that Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander of the Pacific fleet, had reported that "no large enemy combatant vessels were found."

Word of the attack, first such foray by the fleet since the Japanese assaulted its main base at Pearl Harbor to start the war, was paralleled by a War Department announcement that General Douglas MacArthur's embattled army in the Philippines had discovered and smashed extensive Japanese preparations to capture Corregidor fortress in Manila bay by a great assault.

In an apparent effort to wipe out the central Philippine stronghold in one terrible blow the enemy had concentrated invasion vessels, barges and launches, and presumably troops, at the village of Ternate about 25 miles south of Manila, but within range of Corregidor's guns.

Suddenly the guns of the American fortifications system began to pour tons of shells into the enemy concentration. "The surprise was complete and the force and its equipment were destroyed," the War Department reported.

Great Strategic Victory

Crushing of this force before it could even get in motion was a great strategic victory for MacArthur. Corregidor and its satellite fortifications guard the rear of the Batan peninsula where MacArthur's main army is drawn up and where several strong enemy thrusts were repulsed over Saturday afternoon and night and Sunday morning.

The Japanese plan, as understood here, was predicated on the theory that by reducing Corregidor resistance in the Philippines could be brought quickly to an end. To attain such an objective would have required large troop concentrations as well as the huge gathering of invasion boats, so that military men considered it likely that manpower losses of the enemy at Ternate also had been heavy.

While there was no disposition here to minimize the essentially grave situation of the allies in the western Pacific—with Singapore island besieged, a strong enemy force at Moulmein seeking to cut China's Burma road lifeline, and increasing activity against the Dutch East Indies—it was noted nonetheless that the Japanese had found the going increasingly difficult in the last 10 days.

In three outstandingly victorious allied-American and American actions—the battle of Macassar strait, the fleet raid on the Marshall and Gilbert islands and the smashing of the Corregidor invasion scheme—it appeared that the enemy had lost almost thousands of men and dozens of ships sunk or damaged.

The significant departure in allied strategy in the raid on Japan's mid-Pacific bases was described here as the fact that it was a strictly offensive action on a large scale. It was to prevent just such offensive use of the fleet while they were attacking far and wide in the western Pacific that the Japanese made their treacherous assault on Pearl Harbor.

Losses Are Slight

By TOM YARBROUGH
HONOLULU, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, said of the attack by the U. S. navy on Japanese bases in the Central Pacific:

"It is certain that extensive damage was done. Our own losses were slight."

Admiral Nimitz, making a supplementary statement on the Central Pacific attack which was announced by the navy in Washington yesterday, commended the "vigorous action of the commanders in pushing the attack home."

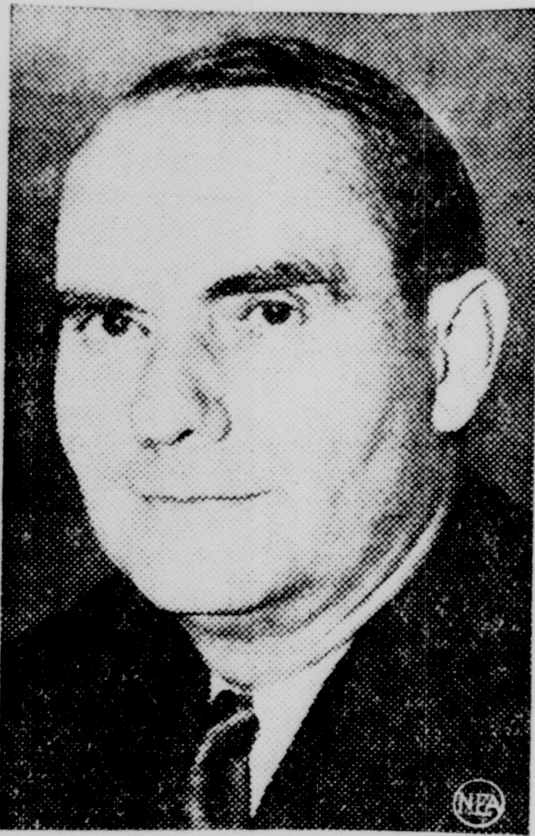

In a surprise action wholly offensive in nature, U. S. surface and air craft raided five island bases in the Marshalls and one in the Gilbert group.

Admiral Nimitz said in his statement: "Task forces of the Pacific fleet consisting of vessels of all combat types carried out successful operations against important enemy bases and tenders in the Marshall and Gilbert Islands."

"It is certain that extensive damage was done. Our own losses were slight."

"The operations were carried out in accordance with prearranged plans. I am greatly pleased with the performances of both officers and men in all units concerned and particularly with the vigorous action of the commanders in pushing the attack home.

"I regret further details of the action cannot now be disclosed."

Blasted By Bombers

RANGOON, Burma, Feb. 2.—Allied bombers have blasted Japanese forces on Kadu Island, the Salween river between occupied Moulmein and the railroad city of Martaban to the north, an RAF communique announced today.

All the planes returned safely, the communique said, and others scouted enemy territory along the front formed by the Salween river in Eastern Burma, around the Gulf of Martaban from Rangoon. (Since the communique mentioned "allied" planes, the American volunteer group—the "Flying Tigers"—presumably participated in the bombardment.)

The Japanese evidently were attempting to use the island as a stepping stone northward across the border mouth of the Salween, but an army headquarters communique said the frontline situation was unchanged.

Japanese Occupy Pontianak

BATAVIA, N. E. I., Feb. 2.—(AP)—The Netherlands Indies high command said today that "unconfirmed reports" indicated that Japanese forces had occupied Pontianak, main city on the west coast of Dutch Borneo.

Japanese landings at Pemangkat, 85 miles north of Pontianak, were acknowledged by the Dutch last week. The Tokyo radio said yesterday that Pontianak had been occupied, but the announcement here today constituted the first confirmation of the claim.

The communique said that Dutch guerrillas of Minabassas, narrow northern peninsula of Celebes island, east of Borneo, still were offering fierce resistance to Japanese forces, despite Tokyo claims that conquest of the peninsula had been completed.

No further news has been received, however, from Kendari, on the southeastern shore of Celebes, where the Japanese also have established a toehold, or from Ambon island, site of a big Dutch naval base between Celebes and New Guinea, the communique declared.

The Tokyo radio reported yesterday that Japanese landing forces on Ambon were approaching the big military airdrome there.

Charge Thousands Poked In Slush Funds by Lobbyists

ging bills" it said were aimed at businesses and professions.

"We have investigated many bills of this character and we have come to the conclusion that thousands of dollars were raised," to fight them, the report said. "But we are of the opinion that the most, if not all of it, was kept by those persons who were instrumental in raising it."

Lobbyists solicit the funds, the jury found, and "state directly or by inference to the contributors (thousands of them) that the money is going to be used in bribing the legislature, x x x

"This practice has been so universal that it has created in the minds of the people generally the suspicion that the legislators are to be bought and sold as cattle."

"We believe the facts are that the greater portion of this money in their pockets and keep it."

The jurors said they discovered "what we believe to be violations in other counties but, of course, are powerless to act," because they occurred outside the jury's jurisdiction.

"It is a matter of common knowledge that $5,600 was raised to ostensibly fight a firemen's pension bill, the report continued. "Probably the only person who knew all about it claimed his constitutional rights on the ground to answer the questions might tend to incriminate him, and there our investigation entered a cul-de-sac."

The jurors declared any person who keeps silent on a plea of self incrimination "is either a criminal or a liar."

Advance Resentment

The investigation went thoroughly into the Hay speech—the shot that started the legislative probe—and concluded:

"None of this evidence disclosed the commission of a single offense." The report said legislative resentment defeated the St. Louis teachers pension bill, "and not the alleged corruption charged by Mr. Hay."

The report criticized handling of legislative contingent funds and purchase of supplies. It said the legislature paid 10 cents for Jefferson City newspapers most of the session while "all other newspapers were purchased at their published rate."

The report urged legislation forcing lobbyists to register with the secretary of state, list their clients and file financial statements under oath showing how all contributions are spent. A similar law, passed in 1907, later was held defective.

It recommended more stringent bribery laws and creation of a special fund to permit the state to take over local prosecution of state-wide crimes.

It asked the legislature's next session to create "an appropriate committee to continue this investigation and also subsequent investigations, x x x it will be superintendent of its own household."

Suggest Pay Raise

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The Cole county grand jury thinks "the legislative situation would be much improved" if the legislators were given a pay raise.

"Surely it is sound judgment for the people to pay a fair price for the services of men who serve in our legislature," the jury concluded today as it finished a four-months investigation of alleged legislative corruption.

"We strongly recommend the adoption of a constitutional amendment providing for payment of members of the house and senate a fixed salary, payable monthly."

The legislature hasn't had a raise since 1875. Members get $5 a day for 70 days of a session and $1 a day thereafter.

Favors Public Inquiry

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Accepting the Cole county grand jury's final report of its legislative investigation today, Circuit Judge Sam Blair said:

"Inquiries of this character should never be conducted by grand juries when they can be conducted publicly. . . . the public is entitled to a public view of the investigation of its public officials."

The legislators, the judge said, "should be formally advised of the contents of this report, since the report recommends that the legislature set up a committee to superintend its own household to continue this investigation and to prosecute subsequent ones. In this recommendation I heartily concur."

Blair ordered copies of the report sent to the governor, attorney general and presiding officers of the legislature.

The four months investigation "cost slightly less than $2,000," the judge said, although "at the beginning of this inquiry it was confidently predicted that its costs might rise as high as $25,000."

Practice of Entertaining

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Here's what the Cole county grand jury thinks of the practice of entertaining legislators at dinner and parties:

"We believe that a bill should be considered on its merits and not upon the tenderness of the steak, the excellence of the cuisine or the potency of the drink."

Gird For Assault By Japs

King George VI, who sent a message of sympathy and good cheer to Sir Thomas and his people.

"While the forces of the empire are fighting so valiantly against an enemy greatly superior in numbers, I know all on the island will acquit themselves with the same resolution," said the monarch. "I wish good luck to you all."

A tour of the island by this correspondent yesterday disclosed no signs of panic or despair among the populace, despite the loss of the entire Malay peninsula to the invaders.

On the contrary, morale appeared to be high, and propaganda leaflets dropped by Japanese airmen suggesting that resistance was useless were greeted with contemptuous smiles.

Following the German pattern, these propaganda leaflets quoted faked news dispatches from neutral sources designed to mislead Singapore residents on war developments elsewhere. One yellow sheet headed "Extra" gave purported highlights of a dispatch dated Lisbon, January 14, asserting:

"Yankee tender olive branch—Roosevelt wants Singapore declared neutral zone."

The withdrawal of civilians from a mile-wide strip on the north shore of Singapore island was accomplished during the weekend with little commotion.

Water supplies in Singapore were said to be adequate to resist a long siege, despite the loss of reservoirs on the mainland. Although the rainy season is over, Singapore had a heavy downpour during the weekend which raised the water level in already well-filled reservoirs and wells.

(The Japanese said yesterday the loss of mainland water sources had sealed the fate of Singapore, contending there were not sufficient supplies on the island to withstand a siege.)

Fiscal Affairs Not Reached Danger Stage

000,000,000 debt limit would have to be raised very soon, Morgenthau testified.

"If we win (the war) the wealth and resources of the country will be here, and if we lose, whether the debt is $100,000,000 or $500,000,000,000 is unimportant."

Savings Bond Sales Jump

"Savings Bond sales have jumped tremendously since the Japanese attack in December and, with the Bureau of Printing and Engraving running 24 hours a day, we are unable to keep up with demands," Morgenthau added.

Harold N. Graves, assistant to the secretary informed the committee that the government hoped every person would invest in savings bonds all the money he does not need for food, clothing, housing and the other necessities of life and for taxes.

Morgenthau asserted that he would "be glad to see Congress strike all of the silver legislation off the books" because of the cost to the treasury.

The committee also received information that:

1. Through informers, the treasury collected $1,309,000 in revenue which had not been reported and paid $58,000 to the informers.

2. The United States has "frozen" foreign funds of 34 countries, starting with Norway on April 8, 1940, and ending with the Philippine islands last Jan. 5.

3. The collection costs for each $100 of internal revenue is 89 cents, the lowest since 1921 when it was 72 cents. But the cost of collecting the new $5-a-year auto tax is estimated at $2.78 for each $100.

Why is it they build homes with every known convenience except low rent?

Boon to rubber-hungry America is seed grafting process developed by U. S. scientists at Miami that increases yield of latex rubber from three to 30 pounds per tree. Seeds from world's finest rubber trees are inserted into base of saplings as shown above, then plants are sent to Central or South America to mature.

Charge That Mother Had Killed Child

Son Previously Told Officers He Was The Slayer

DETROIT, Feb. 2.—(AP)—A 34-year-old mother, Mrs. Mary Bernett, was formally charged with first degree murder today in the strangling of her daughter, Patricia Ann, 8.

She was arraigned before Justice Norman S. James in a suburban Lincoln park court and ordered held without bond for circuit court, where her plea will be taken.

Mrs. Bernett's 15-year-old son, Edward, walked into the suburban Lincoln park police station Saturday and told officers: "I have just killed my sister."

A police squad dashed to the home, found the child's body and the sobbing mother. Confronted with word of his mother's confession, Edward admitted he had nothing to do with the killing and said: "I was just trying to protect mamma."

Strangled With Hands

Bollo said Mrs. Bernett said she had killed the child "to put her out of her misery." She collapsed without explaining her statement, but the assistant prosecutor said he was unable to learn that anything had been seriously wrong with the child before her death.

Bollo said Mrs. Bernett told him that "I strangled Patricia with my hands after leading her into the basement. I held her throat for about ten minutes, then carried her upstairs to the kitchen believing that she was dead. When one of her hands moved, I strangled her again for five minutes."

Time To Build Up

"We are trying to fight a two-ocean war with a one-ocean navy thus far and it is going to take time to build up our strength," Knox testified. "We must not expect quick results. It is a problem largely of holding and doing the best we can with what we have, and putting every ounce of pressure in order to get more as fast as possible."

Knox testified that the navy now has a personnel of 350,000 but expects to reach 533,000 in 1943. In addition, the marine corps then will have 104,000 men, he said. Admiral Towers said 84,000 men were now assigned to naval aeronautics.

Suggests Conscription

Knox's testimony brought an assertion from Senator Holman (R-Ore.) a committee member, that if insufficient men could be found, workers ought to be conscripted.

"I want my attitude on this known, that since we conscript the man to shoot the gun, if the man whose duty it is to make the gun doesn't voluntarily produce it, he should be conscripted and put under military direction to supply the man who hazards his life in the defense of his country," Holman declared.

"I am through," he added, "with this mollycoddling of the labor racketeer who jeopardizes the lives of men who go into combat for us."

The appropriations, averaging more than $1,300,000,000 daily, would represent congressional approval in 30 days of about three-fourths of the $56,000,000,000 war expenditures outlined by the president.

Some of Difficulties

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Some of the difficulties the navy faces in fighting a war 7,000 miles across the Pacific were outlined in testimony of Secretary Knox, made public today by the Senate Appropriations committee.

Knox said that a large number of smaller types of vessels was being used to keep communication lines open to Great Britain and Russia. The navy also has had to undertake to move supplies and equipment across the Pacific communication lines.

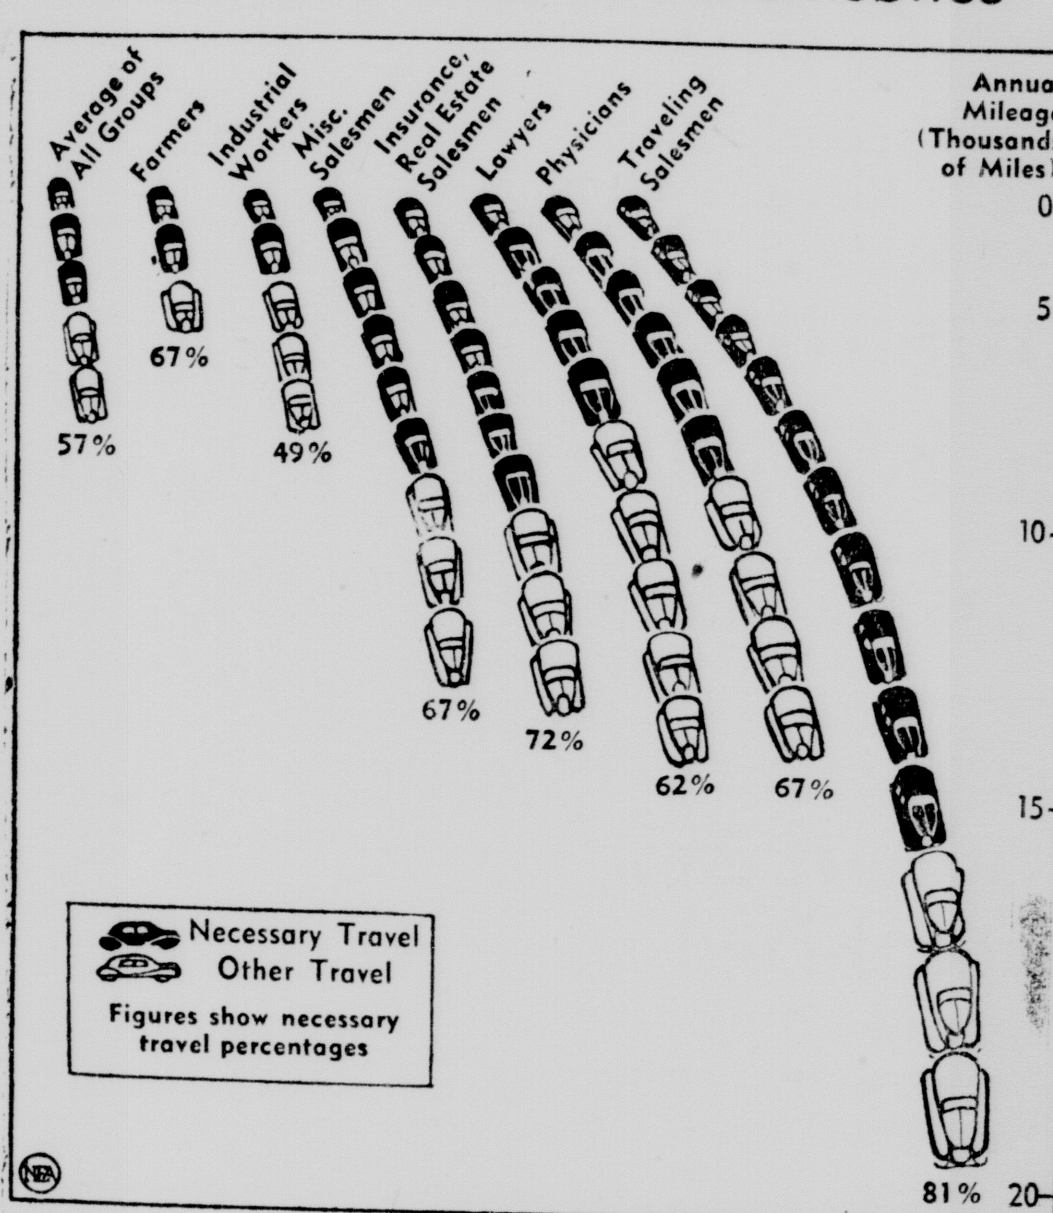

"Supplying and maintaining a fighting force in an active theater requires a large merchant tonnage," he declared. "Moving fighting ships or aircraft to an area is the easiest part of the problem; large aircraft can be flown to any theater."

"We can do that easily enough. The difficulty is to get the fighters there and the ground crews there, and supplies, and all of the various items that must be there for the bombers to operate effectively."

"Particularly you are embarrassed by your fighter situation, because in the European theater bombers in daytime without fighters to protect them are subject to large losses. Fighters cannot be flown and you cannot convey them set up, except very extravagantly. You use a huge amount of ship space if you try to carry a plane assembled."

"The only practical way to ship them in large number, in sufficiently large number to be effective, is to ship them knocked down, case them, and ship them in the hold of ships, and those ships have to travel several thousand miles before they are unloaded, and they have to be escorted every foot of the way."

How U. S. Uses Its Automobiles

Prayer In The Homes Urged

The Ministerial Alliance, meeting Monday morning, passed a resolution that (1) the alliance invite the public to use the churches for daily prayer regularly, in addition to family prayers in the homes, and (2) the alliance further requests that the community of Sedalia and its neighboring territory observe individually a minute of prayer each day at six o'clock.

In connection with the first part of the resolution, plans were discussed for opening the churches daily at hours to be designated by the individual pastors, so that the members use them for times of private prayer for repentance and the prevalence of righteousness in these days of international challenge to the cause of religion.

Plans were also laid for calling attention to the corporate minute of special prayer at 6 p. m., to obtain community-wide cooperation in observing such a moment of intercessory prayer.

The Rev. W. P. Arnold, pastor of the East Sedalia Baptist church, was appointed chairman of the Moral Reform committee, and the Rev. P. L. Miller was added to the committee, with the special responsibility of preparing an educational pamphlet.

The alliance commended the Woman's Missionary Council for planning to observe the World Day of Prayer on February 20, the first Friday in the Lenten season.

The February relief allotments by counties included: Jackson $68,148, Pettis $4,650, St. Louis County $4,352, St. Louis City $106,723.

Power Lacking To Give Stocks Hoist

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(AP)—So-lid demand kept the stock market on its feet today but real progressive power was lacking.

Slightly irregular tendencies prevailed at the opening. Trends steadied later and, while many leaders were unchanged or a trifle in arrears, small advances were well distributed at the close.

Buying was just about as timed as selling, however, and transfers of around 300,000 shares for the full proceedings were among the smallest since June last year.

Wall Street was cheered by word the U. S. fleet had blasted Japanese bases in mid-Pacific and that MacArthur still was standing off the invaders in the Pacific. The speculative and investment urge, at the same time, was restrained by fears for Singapore and British reverses in Africa.

The Washington Merry-go-Round

by Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON—The Justice Department isn't the only government agency that is nambypambying around on clamping down on fifth columnists and enemy aliens.

The Federal Communications Commission also could do a lot more effective work than it is.

Tall, trigger-tempered FCC Chairman Lawrence Fly has done a lot of loud talking about his radio monitoring system; how alert it is in detecting enemy messages, etc., etc.

The real inside fact is that there is a lot more talk than substance to Fly's claims.

The FCC monitoring system could stand considerable improvement and enlargement. Belatedly some of this is now being done, but it should be done much faster and on a larger scale than it is.

For military reasons, details of the weaknesses of Fly's monitoring system can not be discussed. But there are plenty of them. The U. S. is vast and it is fighting a grim war on two even vaster oceans. Also, the enemy is highly skilled and cunningly resourceful. The utmost vigilance is needed to cope with him.

Fly's monitoring system has a lot of loopholes that need plugging up—fast.

Also, Fly's squeamishness about infringing on "civil liberties" could stand some wartime overhauling. It didn't come out in the published report, but the Pearl Harbor Board of Inquiry was informed that the FCC refused to allow intelligence authorities to obtain copies of cable and radio messages sent by the Jap consulate in Honolulu to Tokyo.

When the consulate was raided after the sneak attack and its papers seized, numerous messages were found which when decoded contained detailed information about U. S. naval and army signals in the area and other vital military data.

"Pappy's" Sauce

Senator W. Lee ("Pass the Biscuits, Pappy") O'Daniel attracted nationwide publicity when he launched his crusade for the return of prohibition with a fiery speech demanding that the sale of beer and wines at military posts be banned.

However, at the very time the ballbearing-tongued Texan was haranguing in the Senate, a luncheon was being held on the other side of the capitol which also would have been interesting news had the facts concerning it been known at the time.

The luncheon was one of the regular get-togethers of Texas House members, at which national and state problems are discussed over a tasty meal. It is customary to invite the two Texas senators, so O'Daniel and Senator Tom Connally were notified several days before. O'Daniel enthusiastically accepted, with this proviso:

"This meal is on me, boys. I bagged a deer while in Texas recently and I'll treat you all to some swell venison steak."

The offer was accepted and O'Daniel came through with the venison as promised. But just before the luncheon he phoned that he couldn't attend because he was scheduled to deliver his speech on prohibition.

His guests went ahead and enjoyed the delicacy hugely, particularly a special sauce that came with it, which had a strong, heady flavor.

The luncheoners tasted it, sniffed it, and then a howl of laughter shook the table.

For they had discovered that, while their host was at that moment belaboring John Barleycorn on the Senate floor, the meal he was tendering them was richly seasoned with wine. In fact, as one of the chefs who helped prepare it later admitted, the sauce contained not one wine, but two—port and sherry.

NOTE: The W. in O'Daniel's name stands for Wilbert.

Hitler's Worst Error

Pieced together from diplomatic intelligence the story can now be told of Hitler's greatest error. It is the main reason why he has bogged down so disastrously in Russia.

Chiefly responsible was Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop, the energetic ex-champagne salesman, who has become one of Hitler's closest confidants. Uppermost in Von Ribbentrop's political philosophy is hatred of Soviet Russia, and late last November he persuaded Hitler to make one final push against Moscow. The general staff was dead against it. They contended that the capture of Moscow was not significant from a military point of view and that with deepening snow it would be difficult to get by Moscow's vast secret fortifications.

Ribbentrop, however, had already summoned a conference of the anti-Communist countries for Berlin early in December and he wanted the capture of Moscow to hold before the delegates as Salome served John the Baptist's head before King Herod.

So Hitler cast his decision with his foreign minister.

But in the effort to take Moscow, the German general staff had to remove six divisions from Rostov in the Crimea. There was no time to bring reinforcements from Germany, as Von Ribbentrop insisted upon victory before the anti-Communist meeting in Berlin.

Result was that the Russians, taking advantage of the fact that Rostov was left relatively unguarded, took the key city. Moreover, they did it just as the anti-Communists were meeting in Berlin. It created havoc among the delegates. Instead of celebrating the downfall of Moscow, some of the delegates, especially the Rumanian, Bulgarian, and those along the border of Russia, signed the document with strong misgivings.

This was Hitler's first major mistake from the point of view of military tactics and one from which he has never recovered. For the Russians, taking advantage of it, have kept steadily pounding at the heels of the Nazi army.

Merry-Go-Round

Proud possession of Russian Ambassador Litvinoff and his wife is an autographed photo of the British king and queen. Mrs. Litvinoff is an Englishwoman. While some other aircraft firms are balking at employing Negroes, AGA Aviation Corporation of Pennsylvania has as one of its top engineers Douglas Watson, a young Negro mechanical genius. President of the company is Virgil H. Frazier, born and reared in Alabama. Gerard Swope, retired head of General Electric, has gone to work for the government as an assistant to Secretary Morgenthau. Swope will act as Morgenthau's liaison with the Lend-Lease Administration.

Let's Not Kid Ourselves

Because a 56-year-old man who insisted on boxing with heavyweights, running a quarter-mile in close to a minute, and swimming rivers suddenly dropped dead of a heart attack, some amateur strategists assume that the German high command is falling to pieces.

This is wishful thinking, and it does no good at all to speculate along these lines. Von Reichenau, the German general concerned, may have had no heart trouble before, but he has certainly been flinching with it for a long time if the reports of his athletic exhibitionism are correct.

After grueling military campaigns in which he has been under great strain continually, he falls dead. So what? As to his own internal condition it proves something or other. As to the internal condition of Germany it proves nothing.

Mussolini is a vain, fat, baldheaded man of 59, who also loves to go around thumping on his bare chest in emulation of youthful virility. He, too, may well be flirting with the undertaker, but that doesn't prove that Italy is about to break into thirty thousand pieces.

The sooner we stop wishful thinking about how soon the axis countries are going to fall apart, and get busy tearing them apart, the better it will be for us.

We must fight all the way. It will not do to mark time complacently until 1943 when our legendary volume of production will so astound the axis partners that they will all simultaneously fall flat on their faces.

We must fight in 1942. We must fight now. We must fight in the Philippines, giving General MacArthur and his admirable fighting men any support we can. We must fight in Malaya and at Midway Island. We must fight in the Dutch Indies and Australia. We must get the men and the planes on the scene and fight—now. Fortunately there are signs that it is being done.

It will not do to sit and dream of some overpowering offensive in 1943. If nothing more is done than that, we may wake up and find that the axis has won the war of 1942.

Germany, badly mauled as her eastern army has been in the Russian campaign, is by no means through. No competent military observer doubts that she is able right now to take the offensive in other theaters, and may well be back pounding at the door of Russia in the spring. The British victory in Libya, while magnificent, is inconclusive as long as Tripoli remains in German-Italian-Vichy hands. Japan has not yet lost a trick and shows no sign whatever of weakness.

This year is not just one long year to sit and wait for 1943. The French tried that on their Maginot Line and regretted it later. This is a year to fight, not to sit open-mouthed waiting for a break in the form of axis cave-ins.

The uniforms for the recruits of the high school cadets have arrived, and an election will be held in the company soon to fill the offices of second lieutenant, quartermaster and treasurer.

The Golden Gloves Tourney Opens On Tuesday Night

Expect More Than Twenty Bouts Each Of Three Nights As Sixty Boys Entered

Golden Glove boxers throughout central Missouri tonight will go through light workouts preparing for the sixth annual Golden Glove tournament sponsored by the Sedalia Democrat-Capital which opens Tuesday night at the Liberty Theatre. The preliminary bouts Tuesday night will start at 8:30 o'clock instead of 8:15 as previously announced.

Due to the teams having to weigh in and boys undergoing physical examinations, after which drawings must be conducted will throw the first bouts about fifteen minutes late. However the bouts are expected to furnish plenty of thrills for fighters and much leather throwing will be exhibited.

Howard Peek Here
Howard Peek, father of Mark Peek, three times a champion of the local tournaments has another son entered this season in Roy Peak. Mr. Peek arrived in Sedalia today and will remain in Sedalia throughout the entire tournament assisting Captain Edgar Muench, coach of Wentworth in handling the boxers from that place. His son is now a cadet at Wentworth and is a member of the team from that school.

The local boxers who have definitely entered the tournament are: Tommy Sanders, Donald Smith, Frank Stroehmer, Billy Boehm, William G. Parsley, Joe and Ray Murray, Eddie Cook, Edgar Urton, Jr., Fred Stalard, R. G. boys would be entered by tonight, providing they feel their conditioning has benefitted them in the past week and that they can go through the tournament.

Dean Murray May Fight
Dean Murray will not be seen as a contestant in the tournament this year because of the rating he has made for himself in past tournaments and in preliminary fights during the Kansas City Star trial bouts in Kansas City. He goes directly to Kansas City as a member of the local team. However a bout is expected to be arranged for the final night against a Kansas City boxer.

Including all boxers from Fort Leonard Wood, the Missouri Training school, University of Missouri, Wentworth, and unattached boys, the entries are expected to go far over the sixty which were anticipated.

Tickets for the three nights can be obtained at the Democrat-Capital in the daytime and after 7 o'clock at the Liberty Theatre starting Tuesday. Tickets for the first two nights will be eighty cents ringside and fifty-five cents balcony loges, while on the final night ringside seats will be $1.10 for ringside and seventy-five cents balcony loges.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Spirit" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, February 8, 1942.
Golden Text: Ezekiel 39:29. I have poured out my spirit upon the house of Israel, saith the Lord God.
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Whither shall I go from thy spirit? or whither shall I flee from thy presence? If I ascend up into heaven, thou art there: if I make my bed in hell, behold, thou art there" (Ps. 139:7-8).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Scriptures imply that God is All-in-all. From this it follows that nothing possesses reality nor existence except the divine Mind and His ideas. The Scriptures also declare that God is Spirit. He is all-inclusive, and is reflected by all that is real and eternal and by nothing else. . . . Spirit is not separate from God. 'Spirit is God'" (pp.331,192).

MOM TRIES DOUBLETALK
CHAPTER XXII

SURE enough, a little before 11 Doc's roadster pulled up at the Feedery and he helped out Lolita. She was an eye-fall right.

"Hello, Ma," she said. She came over and kissed me. "How's trade, Ma?" she said.

"No complaint," I told her. "Pipe down on the Ma stuff. No need to spread the Baumer genealogy."

She gave me the wide eye. "I'm not ashamed of it," she said. "Loren knows. I've told him."

"Loren, huh," I said. "Sure," she said. "We're pals."

"It was you I came over to see, Mom," she said. "But the Wandos are right up my alley."

"How's that?" I asked her. "I'm cast for Pocahontas in 'The Great John Smith.' Maybe Pocahontas was a Wando."

"Maybe I'm Queen of the May," I said.

"Well, she could be, couldn't she, Loren? Pocahontas, I mean."

"I'm afraid not," he said. "What do I care?" she said. "If I play her for a Wando, who in Hollywood's going to know the difference?"

"Who, indeed?" Doc said. You could see he was getting a lot of fun out of Carnie.

"I like Loren's Wandos," she said. "He's going to lend me some of their gadgets to wear in my hair."

"Gorgets," Doc said. "You lay off him, Carnie," I said. "He's doing all right where he is."

A CANDID camera fiend popped out of cabin No. 6 and asked if she could take Miss Marquesas' picture with us two. It was okay by me. Doc wanted to duck, but Carnie wouldn't let him. While that was going on, I'd been figuring that it was up to me to be firm. So I said:

"Listen, Carnie. I'm glad to see you and all that. But after this, you crawl back onto your silver screen and stay there."

Doc said, "I don't think that's quite kind or fair, Mom."

"Get this, you two," I said. "I'm Mom Baumer. Carnie's Lolita Marquesas. She can't do me any good and I'd sure be poison for her business. From the time that slick press agent of hers digs up her flossy name and ancestry, I'm out of it. She's the daughter of a thousand Spanish grandees and what does that make me? A cake of Castile soap? No, thank you."

"You're not sore, are you, Ma?" she said.

"Why would I be sore?" I said. "I think you're a swell kid and you're doing a grand job. I'll always be there in the background if you need me."

"I know you will, Ma," she said. "You always were."

"If you'll excuse me," Doc said, "I'll step over and look up the gorgets."

Before he was fairly out of hearing Carnie started in. "Where did you ever get him, Ma? I think he's divine."

"You always were one for being in the current," I said. "This is Hollywood's year to go brainy. Doc probably treated you like you were intelligent, because he hasn't got any other approach. So what happens? Right away you begin to figure that you're a submerged intellectual. Look out, gal! That way ruin lies."

Carnie laughed. "The same old Ma! But you've got to admit he's awfully good-looking."

I took a gander over toward the stockade where Doc was coming out of the doorway, and by this-senthat, she was right! Why I hadn't caught it before I don't know. Maybe because I'd first seen him as the bearded wonder. As he came toward us, with that straight figure and easy swing, his serious face and steady eyes, he was a pretty swell-looking guy of his kind. Inside I was hoping that Carnie would lay off him. I knew he'd been hurt by Juddy and I didn't want him hurt again. And my Carnie was sure something to put a couple of skips in any heman's heartbeat.

SEVERAL days later I was fuming-gating Cabin Three. Juddy came over with the mail.

"Open it up for me," I told her. "I've got no secrets in my young life."

When I came out she was studying over some photos. The candid camera girl had kept her word and mailed back the prints.

It was a nice job for an amateur. Of course, Carnie had made it easy for her. Doc turned out to be naturally photogenic, and I showed something in the pose of Honest Old Mom. Juddy picked the best shot and said she was going to frame it.

"Is she really Spanish, do you think, Mom?" she asked me. "What else would she be with that hair and eyes?"

"So she really came over with Loren Oliver," she said. "He must have been a scream, explaining Wandos to a movie star."

"Maybe it wasn't all Wandos." "What else would it be?"

"He's a man and she's a gal . . ." She gave me the laugh. "Mom, you're hipped on your star boarder."

"Ask him yourself," I said. "He's coming over for his lunch now."

"You gave her a whirl, Doc," I said. "I hope your intentions are honorable."

Doc doesn't always keep up with me. He gawped. Then he stiffened up.

"I'm afraid I don't quite follow you," he said.

"This hot, Spanish blood," I said. "I wouldn't want to have any guest of Tambay get herself into trouble through you."

Juddy giggled. Doc's polite vocabulary slumped. "You're crazy," he said.

"She certainly fell for you," I said. "Didn't I see a letter in the mail yesterday with an L. M. monogram?"

"For Loren?" Juddy said, staring at him.

"A note," Doc said. "Thanking me for the Wando material. Why not?"

"No reason by me," I said. "But why did she ask me when your birthday comes?"

She hadn't, but what of it? Did I say she had? I was out to produce an effect on Juddy.

"You're liable to get a solid gold suitcase or something," I told him. "Don't talk rot, Mom," he said. I pushed it. "I'm giving you the real McCoy," I said. "You've made a dent like the Grand Canyon. How, I don't know. Maybe you talked to her like she has brains."

"So she has," he said. Juddy almost jumped.

I said, "That's what you made her believe. Naturally she was flattered. You've taken advantage of her youth and innocence—mentally, I mean. You've seduced the poor girl's mind, Doc. One of these days, I wouldn't wonder, she'll be giving birth to an idea and you'll be the father of it."

Juddy snorted, though I couldn't tell whether it was disdain or amusement.

Ireland Threads Path Of Perilous Neutrality

EIRE, threading a perilous path of neutrality among the warring nations of the world, clings to an international tight-rope which may snap at any time and plunge the Free State into war.

Eire has fortified her coasts and is grimly prepared to combat any invader although realizing that her small army cannot hope for final victory alone. The stamp above, issued in 1941, commemorates the Irish Rebellion of 1916 and typifies the fighting individualism of the Sons of Erin.

England believes that the long coast line of the Irish Free State is vulnerable to German invasion forces stationed at Brest and other occupied French ports. If Eire were invaded, the Nazis would gain bases to attack Britain.

To stave off such a projected attempt England has sought the use of naval bases at Lough Swilly in the north, and Berehaven and Cobh in the south. English naval authorities want these bases to combat the submarine menace which has functioned effectively off the western shores of Ireland.

Ireland, however, led by militant Premier Eamon de Valera, adheres to a strictly neutral path, giving neither aid nor encouragement to England or Germany.

All-Star Game With Service Men Proposed

Suggestion To Aid Defense By Larry McPhail

By JUDSON BAILEY.
NE WYORK, Feb. 2.—(AP)—A wartime program for baseball, involving an all-star game with a service team and partial payment of players in defense bonds, was proposed for the major leagues today by red-headed Larry McPhail, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The fiery, imaginative boss of the National league champions outlined an all-out-emergency effort for the diamond sport last night at the 19th annual dinner of the New York Baseball Writers and said he expected the National and American leagues to consider the subject at their meetings today.

McPhail, who was a captain in the first world war and one of a small group that attempted to kidnap the Kaiser after the armistice, was allotted a few minutes on an extensive speaking program at the writers' affair and it was midnight before he got his chance to tell the assemblage of a thousand persons what he thought baseball should contribute to the war program.

His suggestions fell into four groups:

1. Move this year's all-star game from little Ebbets Field to the spacious Polo Grounds and let the winner face an all-star service team in some midwestern city.

2. Let everyone in organized baseball, including the players, accept a percentage of his salary in defense bonds.

3. Set aside a part of every admission to buy a bomber, which he suggested might appropriately be named Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

4. Make use of every open date before and during the season for major league clubs to play service teams at army or navy camps.

McPhail made clear that he was offering these suggestions solely on his own responsibility, and during his talk mentioned consultation with only one other magazine. He said he already had talked to President Horace Stoneham of the New York Giants about transferring the all-star game and had received approval. Since Commissioner Landis, the presidents of both major leagues and the majority of the club owners were present while he made his suggestions, it was considered probable that he had discussed them with various other leaders before making them public.

Hockey Game Ends In 1-1 Deadlock

The Kansas City Americans and the St. Louis Flyers battled each other into a ten minute overtime Sunday night in a fast hockey game played on the Pla-Mor rink, but both teams were unsuccessful in attempting to push across the winning tally and at the end of the overtime period the teams left the ice with the evenings scoring honors all tied up at 1-1.

After a scoreless first period, Joe Papike, right wingman of the Americans broke through and scored, assisted by Red Mitchell and Ken Stewart, the score coming in 35 seconds in the second period.

In the third period Bill Kendall of St. Louis pushed a shot through Goalie Omar Kelly of the Americans who played a bang up game for Kansas City, assisted by Naking Smith in 55 seconds, for the tying point.

From then on both teams fought from one end of the ice to the other, but were unable to break the deadlocked score. Ten penalties were called in the contest which saw many arguments and fists flying.

Next home game for the Americans will be Sunday March 8, when the Fort Worth Rangers invade the fast playing Americans.

Dawson Wins In Bing Crosby Tournament

Knocks Four Off Par For A 32 In Homecoming

RANCHO SANTA FE, Calif., Feb. 2.—(AP)—The veteran Hollywood amateur, Johnny Dawson, not only held the Bing Crosby golf championship today but his 66-67-133 was the lowest score ever registered in the tournament.

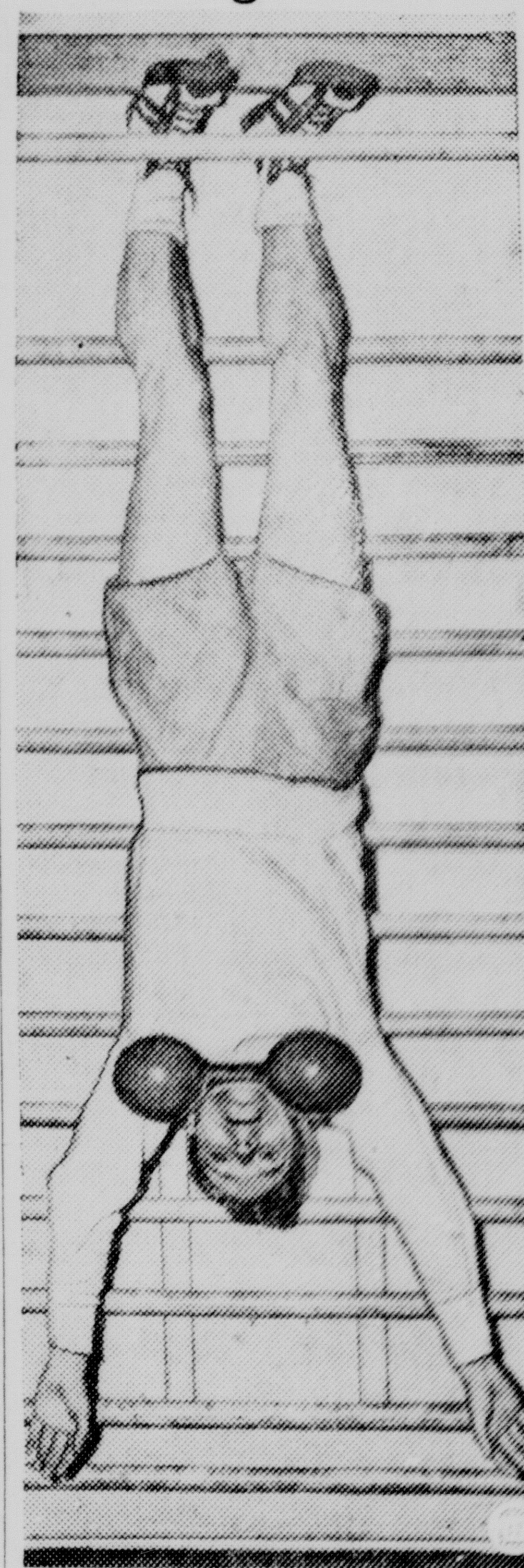

Playing in spectacular fashion the former Chicagoan completed the 36-hole event 11 strokes under par. The touring shotmakers today were heading for another major event, the western open at Phoenix, Ariz.

Dawson was three strokes better than a pair of dark horse candidates, slender Lloyd Mangrum, Monterey Park, Calif., and Leland Gibson of Kansas City, who crashed the select group for the first time in his four years on the California winter schedule.

The pre-tournament favorites, Benny Hogan and Sam Snead, finished down the list, Hogan with a 71-71-142 and Snead, four times winner of the tourney, with an amazing 77-66-143.

Mangrum and Gibson finished first, and it looked like a playoff today for the championship. But Dawson went out in 35, one under and needing a 35 to tie the two, proceeded to knock four off par for a 32 coming home and that was the finish. One shot back of the two pros was Herman Barron, White Plains, N. Y., with 70-67, and five strokes out of first place was Joe Brown of Des Moines.
